APRIL 2, 2011 - PROGRAM REVIEWS

Portrait of India

Everything from the concept, the venue to the wonderful program. It was obvious that a great deal of effort went into the production and it was much appreciated!

The entire presentation inclusive of the dances, songs and the visuals.

The whole show, How it brought together so many artists on one stage. With deferent styles.

It is a beautifully choreographed program about India. I enjoyed the program very much.

Music, Dance and the whole production was well put together

The music, the pictures, the message, the costumes.

Costumes and styles of dance and little known facts about Indian cultural history/ Diaspora

Well organized effort!

Chitram was a unique medium for telling the story of India. The music was masterful and highly emotive. Truly a wonderful celebration.

This history telling of India and its connection with other countries, such as Indonesia, Cambodia, etc.

It was a well organized and beautiful show.

The concept. The choir singing.

The clarity of the show...the choir was excellent.

The connection with diversity. Historical context. Beautiful costumes, color and fabrics.

The chorus and musical performers excellent.....

Different program...having choir for dances. Hopefully increased awareness of Indian culture.

The Garba and Thilaana were very enjoyable.

Dancing, costumes

The richness in the performances, both in dance and song, especially the choir!

The choir was amazing and I would love to see more choir performances!!!

The cultural overview through dance and music was lovely.
